

Take action and stay informed!

Together, our voices carry.

You can be a strong advocate for education technology by taking action and staying informed.

How can I take action?

- Send a letter to Congress through the Ed Tech Action Network (ETAN) at edtechactionnetwork.org
- Sign-up 5 colleagues for ETAN
- Attend a Town Hall meeting
- Invite a policymaker to your school
- Participate in Affiliate Advocacy work, find out who your local affiliate is at iste.org/affiliates and go to the directory
- Nominate yourself or a colleague for the ISTE Advocate of the Year awards, visit iste.org/advocacy
- Attend Washington, D.C., Ed Tech Policy Summit*
- Attend ISTE's ABCs of Advocacy Workshop*

How do I stay informed?

- Join ISTE's Advocacy Advisory Group, contact hgoldmann@iste.org
- Join ISTE Voices Carry Advocacy Ning Group at iste.community.org
- Access free ISTE advocacy resources at iste.org/advocacy
- Read Hilary Goldmann's Ed Tech Advocacy Blog, go to iste-community.org
- Follow @hgoldmann on Twitter

ISTE is dedicated to bringing the voice of educators to policy makers regarding education technology and digital age learning. With your help, we have successfully influenced policy makers from school board members to federal legislators.

*For more information about these events, please contact Hilary Goldmann, ISTE Senior Government Affairs Officer at hgoldmann@iste.org.
